

Why We Went To War

The complete story of America's involvement in World War II will not be told, of course, until long after hostilities have ended. Bits of the background, however, fall into place from time to time. There was, for instance, Mr. Churchill's frank admission that he labored mightily to draw us into the struggle as a full-fledged belligerent. There is also the State Department's recent disclosure that the Japanese attack of Dec. 7, 1941, far from being a bolt from the blue, was a consequence of the ultimatum we secretly handed the Japanese Nov. 27, 1941, demanding that they surrender their conquests in Asia.

Another bit, this one a matter of interpretation, came a fortnight or so ago from Arthur Hays Sulzburger, publisher of the arch-internationalist New York Times which is extremely close to our State Department. Said Mr. Sulzburger: "I happen to be among those who believe that we did not go to war because we were attacked at Pearl Harbor. I hold rather that we were attacked at Pearl Harbor because we had gone to war when we made the Lend-Lease declaration." —Morris H. Rubin in The Progressive.

A WOMAN'S INTUITION

In connection with the war, naturally, the thought strays back to the memorable day when Congress was faced with the question of whether a state of war existed on account of the attack at Pearl Harbor, for so was the resolution worded. There was just one woman who dared stand up and deny it. That woman was Jeanette Rankin, from Missoula, Montana.

This woman was elected from her district to defeat Congressman Thorkelson. It was the Jewish influence that elected her. I always look with awe when I watch the Hand of Providence at work. Most likely Thorkelson, being a man, would have voted "Aye" upon the resolution, as worded. I know I would; not because I approve war, but because I would have reasoned that being attacked already, a state of war does exist. But not so this woman. Her intuition told her that something was awry. She trusted her woman's intuition more than men's reasoning faculties. And now Sulzburger comes out and confirms her woman's intuition.

I have tried on various occasions to place myself in that woman's shoes and fathom what had passed through her consciousness on that fateful day.

I made an attempt to contact her by mail, but she did not answer. So I have to work it out myself.

The day of the attack at Pearl Harbor, naturally, must almost have killed her. It frankly left me dazed. I have been dazed till just a few weeks ago. It was a terrible shock to all of us who know what war means; the dead, the crippled, the insane, the orphans, widows and the heart breaking sufferings, life long sufferings of those who return but are not all here, either missing parts of the body, or of the mind; and their loved ones who must live with them.

And so the woman knew that soon she would have to take her stand publicly. She must have remembered that other memorable occasion when she and others refused to vote for world war I. She must have visualized the results of the previous war. How the "war to end war" turned out another nightmare with this war in sequence and No. 3 to come yet, right out of this one, as it is easily seen now, since Russia and Britain have declared their policies. She must have remembered Wilson, his 14 points, Versailles and of all things she must have remembered Churchill:

"America's entrance into the (World) war was disastrous not only to your country but for the Allies as well, because had you stayed home and minded your own business we would have made peace with the Central Powers in the spring of 1917, and then there would have been no collapse in Russia, followed by Communism; no breakdown in Italy, followed by Fascism; and Nazism would not at present be enthroned in Germany. If America had stayed out of the war and minded her own business, none of these 'isms' would today be sweeping the continent of Europe and breaking down parliamentary government."—WINSTON CHURCHILL in August, 1936.

And so God was good to America. He used the Jews to elect a woman against Thorkelson, who was considered anti-Semitic, that one voice may be raised that dared voice her Woman's Intuition on the side of the truth, that it may go down in the record that at least one American did not yield to "reason" but loved the truth more. And Sulzburger agrees.

PARKING METERS UNDER ATTACK

The city has 14 days in which to remove parking meters, C. Leon de Aryan, publisher of a weekly newspaper, served notice on the city council.

Calling the meters "one-armed bandits" and "crooked slot-machines", de Aryan charged the city administration with maintaining an "illegal nuisance" and cited various instances in which he said meters failed to operate, or did not make a full allowance in time for the nickels or pennies dropped in them.

He did not say what action he will take after the 14 days. His letter was filed.—S. D. Tribune-Sun.

Editor's Note: We'll go to court for an order to show cause why the crooked slot machines should not be removed from the streets of San Diego.

Congratulations McKinnon!

The long looked for S. D. Daily JOURNAL made its appearance last Friday. An evening paper. A nifty 34 page issue covering all fields of news, sports, women's interest, etc. Even our old friend Leslie E. Claypool has a column and promises to "try it" again.

Well, we wish them all the success in the world, though most likely we will be working on opposite sides of the road, they for the New Deal, we for individual initiative.

Jewish Attorney Battles New Deal Judge

Ejecting Defense Attorney Only One of Many Exciting Court Battles in Washington Case.

WASHINGTON— There were many clashes and "Stricken-from-the-record" statements in the Administration's preliminary motion hearings in the U. S. District "sedition's" court here.

The atmosphere was tense throughout the day, as attorney after attorney attacked both the indictment and especially the Federal prosecutions "Bill of Particulars", arguments upon the latter being the occasion for the court session.

Arguments on specific motions had been about finished, when at 3:30 in the afternoon, Lawyer Henry H. Klein of New York, arose to speak for his client, Col. Eugene N. Sanctuary. He was in the midst of delivering devastating blows against the "so-called" "Bill of Particulars", charging that it was of a false and fraudulent nature. Mr. Klein said, "Your Honor, this bill of particulars DEFEATS THE INDICTMENT. The indictment charges German National Socialism with a 'revolutionary conspiracy', but in all the prosecution's mass of political propaganda and quotations from Nazi writers we find not one word to sustain the indictment's false charge that its purpose was 'revolution in America'."

Prosecutor Rogge, who never once smiled, could stand only about two minutes of Klein's block-busters, suddenly spoke up: "Judge, no motion is pending, he is out of order."

The Judge: "Mr. Klein, have you a motion for a bill of particulars?"

Klein: "No, your honor, but I —"

The Judge: "You are out of order, Mr. Klein. I will hear you no further."

Klein attempted to explain. The Judge: "If you persist, I shall have to order your removal from the court room."

Klein: "Well, now your honor, let me—I had a letter—"

The Judge: "The marshals will" — the rest of the judge's words were inaudible by reason of the scramble which instantly took place as three deputies grabbed Klein (a man past 60 years of age, but well-preserved and a scrapper).

"Unhand me," he shouted. "Let me get my papers," the deputies releasing their holds slightly as he swiped up his portfolio, and swish, swish, the quartet sounded as they made for the door, Mr. Klein shouting, "I ask your honor to note how they are handling me!"

It seems that somewhere in the melee the judge was offering to let Klein remain, if he would sit down and obey the judge's rules and orders.

Klein Comes Back Smiling

In a few minutes, Klein walked back into the court room, smiling and debonair, into the part reserved for the lawyers, and read to the judge a letter from Prosecutor Rogge of the previous week, inviting him to come down and discuss before the court the prosecution's 'Bill of Particulars'. "That's why I came, your honor, and I was only carrying out the invitation."

Klein continued, "I do not want to draw any conclusions, your honor. I will simply state facts, and you may draw the conclusions."

His Honor seemed to relent slightly. "But you were making a political speech, Mr. Klein. You must confine yourself to good faith comments on the Bill of Particulars."

Klein: "I tried to do so, your honor." He spoke in a calm tone of voice, but it was his words that had the dynamite. He had the history of the Nazi movement in Germany at his finger tips.

"Hitler came into power by the democratic process; by official appointment as chancellor; was later elected fuhrer by the people; nowhere was there 'revolution', as the indictment alleges or as the bill of particulars fails to specify."

The judge interrupts; Klein talks on—

"This bill of particulars defeats the indictment. There is not one quotation from Germany regarding revolution." Then came this dynamite—

"THERE IS A COMPLETE PARALLEL IN THE U. S. NEW DEAL WITH HITLER'S CONDUCT IN GERMANY, AND—"

"STRIKE THAT FROM THE RECORD!" ordered the judge.

Prosecutor Rogge: "This is not 'good faith' request for information!"

The Judge: "Time has elapsed for filling motions for a 'bill of particulars'." Klein answers: "As I know the law, one may file such a motion any time up to the trial."

The Judge: "The court will waste no more time today."

Klein's Motion for Postponement

At this point Klein opened his portfolio and took out some papers. "I have a motion to file, and I leave a copy with Mr. Rogge, asking him to acknowledge with his signature."

Dead silence followed, as judge and prosecutor read the motion's pages, which included photo-stats of current newspaper articles, showing violent prejudice over the nation against the defendants, and asking for an indefinite postponement of the case until a fairer trial could be assured.

The Justice Strikes

Said the Judge: "This motion contains scurrilous and scandalous matter and it will be refused admission to the files of this court, Mr. Loughlin, the name of the local attorney, Mr. Loughlin, is not signed to the document. . . . If a paper is properly drawn and presented on next Monday, the 20th, I shall permit it to be filed."

Klein: "Will the Honorable Court please point out the scurrilous part?"

The Judge's reply: "THE ORDER WILL STAND."

Klein Accuses F. B. I.

Attorney Klein has had previous run-ins with the New Deal Justice, Eicher. Klein minces no words, knows the law front and back, calls a spade a spade, is a bitter critic of the New Deal, which he regards a "totalitarian" movement toward complete socialism. He points out that this prosecution is a "political persecution" of its political critics. And, boy, does that make the New Deal judge and Prosecutor Rogge boil!

There was a touch of drama in the final salute of Mr. Klein. He said, "I want the Justice Department to order the F. B. I. to withdraw their wire-tap of my telephone."

Did he get his grievance aired or answered? He certainly did NOT. Instantly the judge shot back:

"THAT WILL BE STRICKEN FROM THE RECORD."

The Grievs of Jones

Poor Ellis O. Jones of Los Angeles, former associate editor for many years of such papers as "Life", "Ladies Home Journal", "New York Times", etc., who criticised too loudly, too quickly after Pearl Harbor, and was tried and convicted of both national and state indictments, thinks the two sentences are bad enough, but to be put in "double and triple jeopardy" in this "fantastic" alleged conspiracy is the last straw.

"Isn't it queer . . . that God still rules supreme?!"

* * * *

"I do solemnly swear (or affirm) that I will faithfully execute the office of President of the United States, and will, to the best of my ability, preserve, protect, and defend the Constitution of the United States".

Being unable to hire a good lawyer and distrusting any Washington New Deal court appointee, he is acting as his own attorney. He pleaded with the judge to try to ameliorate his harsh treatment in the matter of delayed mails and no conferences with prospective witnesses and friends who might help him.

The judge said, "Your troubles are the result of your refusal to accept a court appointed attorney. . . . If your complaints continue, I shall appoint an attorney for you."

"Over my protests?" asked Jones. "Yes," replied the judge.

"I take an exception, your honor," said Jones.

Will Some Escape?

There are many strange angles to this so-called "sedition" case. It is recalled that an article by Columnist Leonard Lyons in many American dailies, in September, 1942, said "George S. Viereck—when you come to trial, you will have only nine co-defendants; satisfactory arrangements will have been made with the other 18." And, although Maloney rigged up a re-indictment in January, 1943, and added five new names, and his successor tried to go to trial with 33 one year ago, yet the latest grand jury RELEASED 11,—very close to the 18 Lyons had predicted.

Today court-appointed attorney Thompson said, "Your honor, my client Diebel should be released, because of the statute of limitations. The indictment unjustly charges that he conspired right on up to the day of the new indictment in 1944, whereas he was placed in an interment camp the day after Pearl Harbor and has been in government confinement ever since."

Rogge's Strange Reply

Said Prosecutor Rogge today: "Your honor, if you find there is no real evidence against some of these defendants, you can at the trial direct the jury to bring in a verdict of 'NOT GUILTY'."

"We are tired of the long delays and are anxious for you to fix a definite, and not a tentative, DATE FOR THE TRIAL."

The judge fixed APRIL 17 as the starting date of the trial, which is expected to consume many months.

Maximilian St. George of Chicago, was perhaps the most effective attorney in today's arguments, since Klein was suppressed. St. George really "went to town" in eloquence and logic, which went unanswered. Some able speeches were made by others. Most of the court-appointedees said little; some never showed up; others wanted a speedy trial. The paid attorneys want it quashed, or put off until the war hysteria has passed.

Affidavit of Bias?

There was a hint of an affidavit of bias, which would disqualify Justice Eicher from sitting at the trial. One lawyer said, "Perhaps your honor had just as lief another judge would try this case."

MRS DILLING ABSENT

(The following is from the pen of Philip Ward, in the Washington Times-Herald, 3-14-44.)

Mrs. Dilling was not in court yesterday. Instead she sent to Rogge and members of Congress a mimeographed letter saying that because "I know there are no valid particulars about me to be extracted", she would not spend the money to come to Washington at this time. She has charged that the recently filed bill of particulars did not in reality contain any particulars.

"It would be like spending time and money to try to wring blood from a turnip," Mrs. Dilling wrote. "The 32-page German history you sent would be superb as farce were it not intended as malicious, libelous, irrelevant, window-dressing for this affair."

"You have no case. You have, in bad faith, imposed upon the United States courts at U. S. taxpayers's expense, a Communist-backed New Deal conspiracy directed primarily at Members of Congress; secondly, at all patriotic Americans opposed to communistic policies and personnel in the New Deal."

Trial Set for April 17

At the insistence of Rogge, Judge Eicher set the case down for trial on Monday, April 17.

A Republican newspaper, standing for a clean sweep of the Augean stables. Fearless fighter for a truthful, just, vigilant and tolerant nationalism. Lover of the Constitution and the Founding Fathers. Defender of free speech and free press, as the foundation stones of the republican form of government. Opponent of injustice, tyranny and oppression, and of all "isms" except Americanism.

'Indispensable' Commander-in-Chief?—'Hooley'!

THE BETTER ANSWER

Senator White of Maine has applied the word "hooley" to the contention of Vice-President Wallace that the nation's war effort would suffer if the President were not re-elected to a fourth term. That might be a sufficient answer to Mr. Wallace but it isn't enough for sincere people who might have their doubts as to the effect of a change in administration.

The facts are that the conduct of the war on its military side is in the hands of the army and navy general staff and not in the hands of the President. He himself is not a military leader and the title of commander in chief is largely nominal. He accepts the decisions of the military authorities and any other man as President would be under inescapable obligations to do the same thing. The decisions he is called on to make are those of grand political strategy.

In a war of world scope military strategy is often a joint affair with the Allied staffs. They have been present or represented at all the great conferences held since the war began. These military leaders have extended training and experience for the responsibilities they must assume. Various Republican leaders have stressed the fact that a change in administration would mean no change in American military personnel or the aggressive prosecution of the war. That suggests the real answer to Mr. Wallace and the talk about the indispensability of the commander in chief.—Kansas City Star.

Germany Must Remain Strong

LONDON TIMES OPPOSES REVENGE

LONDON—The Times of London, in a leading editorial, takes issue with a considerable body of British opinion that holds that the world's security demands that Germany should be dismembered after this war.

The Times argues, to the contrary, that Europe's future health demands that Germany be allowed to remain an important economic and political power, though within an international framework that would prevent her from using her power again for aggression.

This editorial, evidently the result of much deliberation, is the first full statement that The Times has permitted itself on what is to be done with Germany after the war. It is couched in much stronger phraseology than this careful journal usually permits itself. Because of the influence of The Times in British life, its utterance has special importance.

The Times concedes that security from German aggression must be a prime consideration of the peace settlement, but it contends that this can be done by setting up a system of European unity.

"Unless shattered and dismembered Europe can find some new vision that looks forward rather than back, some leadership bold enough to survey her needs and problems as a whole, her civilization will surely perish," the editorial says. To blot out Germany from among the nations of Europe would be neither practicable nor morally acceptable to the civilized world, the editorial says. It continues:

"In spite of the burning detestation of German oppression that fills Europe at this moment, it is still axiomatic, even with her victims, that Germany cannot be other than an important member of the European body politic and economic; and that, while the firmest measures must be taken to prevent aggression, Germany cannot be allowed to become a cancer at the heart of the European organism."

Breaking Germany into separate units, The Times argues, would rehabilitate Germany's nationalism and fan her determination to remain united and would soon make the task of forcibly maintaining such a separation insupportable.

But what The Times considers even more important is its supposition that an effective division would cripple German productive capacity and German trade and would result in "desperate repercussions" all over Europe. If the skill, industry and efficient organization of German production are essential to European recovery and European standards of living, The Times continues, "it is vital to discover some way in which they can be maintained without reconstituting the threat of German aggression or German domination."

"From this fear Europe must be delivered once and for all. But, after all that Europe has suffered in loss and devastation, there will be no room in the terms of peace for further policies of mere destruction. Freedom from fear and want will be won not by breaking down what forms of economic organization are left but by building them up into the broader structure of European unity."

It is unthinkable, the editorial continues, that Germany's essential industries and her systems of power and transport should be left exclusively in German hands, for that would nullify any security. Germany's economic capacity "must be welded firmly into a European system established and maintained with a backing of force which will preclude its misuse for aggressive aims."

As to how this shall be done, the editorial suggests little that is concrete further than that the unity of Europe cannot be firmly based without the active participation of Great Britain, Russia and the United States.

OUR GROUNDHOG WORLD

By GEORGE CARTWRIGHT

Bankers' Peace Deal

"In Fact" quotes Reynolds News, London: "The American Bankers Assn., is pressing hard for preservation of the Bank for International Settlements, the notorious instrument of the Munichites, now 'completely in Nazi hands."

"There are reasons to believe that the Bank is playing a big part in Nazi plans for a peace deal. Dr. Schacht, former Reichsbank president, recently visited Switzerland then went on to Madrid. He is said to have held 'important consultations'."

Charity Bait

We understand one of the moves to popularize Astor Fascism in Britain was offering title of Cliveden estate conditioned upon the Astor family having its perpetual use as a residence. Making the estate government land would make it tax exempt. This is worth watching when some of our American big shots develop this form of generosity. "Charity covers a multitude of sins". A New York writer stated, "Life nor property would not be safe on Broadway if it were not for organized charity". In other words, the predatory give back part of their pocket-pickings to prevent the poor developing an economic cyclone as took place in France, the revolution.

Education

"The schools do not belong to us. We only pay for them. They are under control of politicians, the politicians are controlled by wealth and privilege. These determine what is best for the mass mind through control of newspapers, magazine, radio and cinema."—L. A. Wells, Denver, Colo.

Farmer Independence

"The independent farmer," statement is used both seriously and sarcastically. An "Almond Facts" writer tells us: "In my community last summer I saw an old man of 87 doing the whole work on a 120-acre farm, getting through it somehow. A couple of farms away, a little girl of ten drove a tractor all summer. On next farm to us we could see tractor lights moving across fields many a night until well after midnight. The wife of another neighbor did a good part of the plowing on a 500-acre farm. She is mother of three children under 12 years of age. She did the cooking, washing and put up about 1200 cans of vegetables and fruit."

Mortgage slavery produces such working conditions. Did chattel slavery ever produce worse? Taking taxes out of prices and collecting Land Rent as revenue will make Land Free for use without a mortgage on the slaves' neck.

Oil Deal

Reynolds News, London, (quoted by "In Fact"): The oil kings are busy again. American interests are being offered concessions in Saudi, Arabia, on condition that they oppose creation of a Jewish State in Palestine. In Palestine Dead Sea area is enough oil to disrupt all plans of Middle East Oil Companies.

'Racial Equality' Pamphlet Probe Closed by House Group

WASHINGTON—The house military committee closed the books on a secret investigation of army plans to distribute 55,000 copies of a pamphlet on racial equality, but kept an eye on a government warehouse to make certain the books stay there.

Titled "The Racecs of Mankind", the pamphlet was published by the Public Affairs Committee, Inc., of New York City, and was prepared by Prof. Ruth Benedict and Dr. Gene Weltfish, identified on the title page as associated with the department of anthropology of Columbia university.

Chairman May (D-KY) said the war department abandoned plans to distribute the book in connection with its orientation courses after the committee threatened to "expose the motives behind this book". The purpose of the pamphlet, he declared, was to teach racial equality, especially the equality of white men and Negroes.

What irked May and other committee members was what the Kentuckian said was a claim in the book that surveys indicated the average Negro in New York, Connecticut and Massachusetts was the intellectual equal of the average white resident of Kentucky, Arkansas and Mississippi.

Committee members said the book had been banned from U. S. O. centers and its distribution then was promoted by the C. I. O. war relief committee. When the army purchased 55,000 copies, May said, the committee decided to investigate.

Army spokesmen claimed the pamphlet never was intended for general circulation among soldiers, but was to have been distributed among officers teaching orientation courses as background material to refute the Nazi "super race" theory.

PLAYING BOTH SIDES AGAINST THE MIDDLE

NEW YORK—Members of the National Lawyers Guild, in cooperation with the National Committee to Combat Anti-Semitism, have agreed to represent any person affected by any act of anti-Semitism throughout the United States.

This was announced in a joint statement issued by Leonard E. Golditch, Acting Secretary of the National Committee to Combat Anti-Semitism, and Martin Popper, Executive Secretary of the Guild.

The Guild, of which Robert W. Kenny, the Attorney General of California, is national president, is sending a request to that effect to Guild Chapters throughout the country, and the appropriate machinery is being set up.

It is strange that the Administration should appear to be aligned with an America Firster like Lessing Rosenwald as against Jewish democratic opinion in this country which has always been New Deal.—Arnold Levin in B. B. Messenger, L. A.

MILITARY FASCISM

The President admitted in his recent "State of The Nation" address, that the War and Navy Department are clamoring for a labor conscription bill. Why must the President listen to the military reactionaries in the conduct of civilian affairs? Have "Military Fascists" taken over this democracy? When will Secretary Stimson and Secretary Knox start fighting the war and stop trying to "Prussianize" the American people? They say the boys in the fox holes demand labor conscription. Be not deceived. No boy in the slime and the mud of the jungle wants his father, his mother or his sister kicked around like dogs by bungling Washington bureaucrats.—Sen. Edwin C. Johnson, (D., Colorado) on American Forum.

CANNOT TRUST WARMAKERS

The people have a right to feel that they have been fooled again in the aims and purposes of this war. In the years when we were being pushed into it, we were told that by winning the war against the dictators we would establish freedom, democracy, and peace in the world. Now it is daily more evident that the underlying purposes of this war are profits, political power, and imperialism.

And since we are thoroughly in it, and most of the people feel that the only way out is to fight it through, the same men who declared that the great purpose of the war was to win world peace are telling us that we must keep our armaments and have universal military training after this war is over. This does not sound as though these men had any faith in their promise that this war would establish permanent peace.

It should be plain now that we cannot put our trust in the warmakers. They have deceived us too often. The cure for war is not to centralize power in some great world state or alliance, and thus give more power to rulers and political leaders who believe in war and violence, but for the people to take back powers they have surrendered and begin running their own affairs.

Too long have the people been periodically duped into

Jeanette E. Daley for Congress

Pointing to the "dangerous drift of the new deal toward regimentation, and loss of individual rights," Jeanette E. Daley, former assemblywoman from the 78th district, and long-time business and civic leader of San Diego county, has announced her candidacy for Congress from the 23rd district.

The primary election will be held on May 16, and the general election on Nov. 7.

"Let me say frankly that I am firmly convinced that the new deal has become dangerous to the future of our country, and we must have a change, if we are to put a stop to national paternalism, and bureaucracy, which is concentrating all power in Washington," said Mrs. Daley.

One of the features of Mrs. Daley's platform is her position regarding wartime strikes.

"I have always bitterly opposed the idea of strikes at a time when America is fighting for her very life," she said. "I don't believe strikes should be permitted in war factories, any more than on the battlefield. One is just as important as the other. We must stop strikes to win this war and now. If I go to Congress, I am committed to legislation outlawing strikes in wartime, and I know that many members of organized labor join me in that view."

Two other points in Mrs. Daley's platform are:

1. Full support of legislation for the rehabilitation and education of the returning veterans of World War 2.
2. Active support of legislation for development of the harbor, water facilities, highways and industry. In this connection Mrs. Daley voiced her ardent support of the proposed low-elevation highway to Imperial Valley and the east. She pointed to her long service on local highway committees, as evidence of her interest in highways.

A resident of San Diego county for 26 years, Mrs. Daley has operated successfully farming and construction businesses during that time. As a farmer, she knows first-hand the needs of the rancher of the county.

Prior to being elected to the California legislature, Mrs. Daley had valuable banking, insurance and real estate experience, which stood her in excellent stead during her six years in the Assembly, 1937-43.

As a member of the Assembly, Mrs. Daley served for four years as chairman of the social welfare committee, and was instrumental in the passage of laws improving the conditions of the aged, blind and physically-handicapped of the state. She also served on other major committees.

"I have demonstrated that I have the courage of my convictions as evidenced in my successful fight to rid the state of California of the discredited Olson machine," Mrs. Daley said. She was a leader of the non-partisan economy bloc which is credited with saving the taxpayers approximately $125,000,000 during the Olson administration.

"The state's enviable financial condition today is a result of this economy bloc's efforts, and I believe that I can carry on a similar program successfully as representative of this district in Congress," she said.

Mary Baker Eddy On War

When I read the following quotation in Women's Voice, from Chicago, I wrote a letter to its editor, to which she replied, as you read it in last week's issue. Here is the quotation that arrested my attention: "The breath of freedom never comes from the cannon's mouth."

It appeared in SCIENCE and HEALTH, on page 225 of the pocket book, 1912, edition. That gave me an opportunity to read up on that chapter and I decided to reproduce it so that it give the reader a clear picture of what Mrs. Eddy intended to convey, which cannot be had by a mere quotation out of context.

Our readers, of course, are interested to know why, though fundamentally disagreeing in the "mind and matter" conception of Mrs. Eddy, we give her credit for good yeoman's work to free the mind from many superstitions. Naturally, we give even the Devil his due, why not Mrs. Eddy?

Our disagreement with her is caused by this truth: Mind and matter are co-existent. Mrs. Eddy assumes that matter is the product of mind, without reality in GOD. And that's where she is mistaken. Matter has as much reality in God as Mind has, because matter is the product of mind. If matter had no reality, then neither has mind. They are both co-existent in divine consciousness. Mrs. Eddy claims 2 minds, divine and mortal. There is no such thing. This is not the place to go into further details.

To understand why Mrs. Eddy made this adolescent mis-statement on the nature of mind and matter, one must realize her personal history as an ENTITY in LIFE eternal.

Mary has been "one of our pupils" in the esoteric schools. Not continuing till graduation, she was caught with the great ambition to HELP ignorant New Englanders out of their benighted orthodoxy. This desire overshadowed her need of finishing her studies. Since we all have free will, it was then decided to let her incarnate where she could accomplish her "mission". She has, but not being a graduate, all the earmarks of the neophyte are stamped into her work and any pupil of higher grades can easily detect them.

FOOTSTEPS OF TRUTH

Page 224 of SCIENCE and HEALTH: Mental Emancipation— Truth brings the elements of liberty. On its banner is the Soul-inspired motto, "Slavery is abolished". The power of God brings deliverance to the captive. No power can withstand divine Love. What is this supposed power, which opposes itself to God? Whence cometh it? What is it that binds man with iron shackles to sin, sickness, and death? Whatever enslaves man is opposed to the divine government. Truth makes man free.

Truth's ordeal—You may know when first Truth leads by the fewness and faithfulness of its followers. Thus it is that the march of time bears onward freedom's banner. The powers of this world will fight, and will command their sentinels not to let truth pass the guard until it subscribes to their systems; but Science, heeding not the pointed bayonet, marches on. There is always some tumult, but there is a rallying to truth's standard.

Immortal sentences—The history of our country, like all history, illustrates the might of Mind, and shows human power to be proportionate to its embodiment of right thinking. A few immortal sentences, breathing the omnipotence of divine justice, have been potent to break despotic fetters and abolish the whipping-post and slave market; but oppression neither went down in blood, nor did the breath of freedom come from the cannon's mouth. Love is the liberator.

Slavery abolished—Legally to abolish unpaid servitude in the United States was hard; but the abolition of mental slavery is a more difficult task. The despotic tendencies, inherent in mortal mind and always germinating in new forms of tyranny, must be rooted out through the action of the divine Mind.

Editor's Note: This last sentence covers the NEW-DEAL to a "T". That is exactly why we are opposing the administration of FDR.

Private and Public Life

The other day I was eating at the Vegetarian Cafeteria about 3 PM, upstairs, as usual, and was visiting with a former U. S. Census taker, who was sitting at my table. I noticed three ladies downstairs, craning their necks to have a better view of me. That is nothing unusual, since people always point me out to one another, but one of the ladies, with eye-glasses, got up twice and stepped close to the foot of the stairs to take a good look at me. After finishing my meal and visit, I walked down and again that lady took an unusual interest in seeing me, so I wondered whether she was one of the thousand who had met me some place before and I had forgotten her identity. I asked: "Do you know me, madam?"

Her reply was very acid, "No, I don't, and I would not want to, either."

The three were Jewish ladies and you could have cut the hatred they sent out through their eyes, with your hand. It woke me up. Here we were peacefully going about our daily chores, enjoying our meals, but these three were carrying their hatreds with them and poisoning the atmosphere with it. They are the aliens in our midst who must be assimilated to become Americans, to outgrow their clanish pettiness and hatreds. But are they assimilable?

Now, is this a private or a public incident? Was it a hatred directed at me, personally, or me, the editor who insists that to be Americans, all of us must live up to the standard and leave alien allegiance outside Ellis Island if they wish to be one of US.

Let us bear in mind that America is You and I, we, as private individuals. Our so-called public life is to serve and insure our private rights, our private decisions how to conduct our private lives. It is you who want the right to love and associate intimately with whom you cherish. This right must be protected from racial aliens. You cannot be told by others whom to cherish and whom to avoid, or with whom to do business. This sovereign right of free choice, is the quintessence of Americanism.

No Jewish, or any other, lady needs make my acquaintance, but neither must anyone of them dictate to me to worship Mr. Roosevelt, his Newdeal, or put the Allied war aims above my allegiance to God. Can the world prosper, publicly, or privately, when we pretend to love and obey God, but carry hatreds with us even to public eating places?

It was here where I had met a woman, whom I had imagined dared to live up in practice to the ideal of courageously carrying the torch of Christ, without fear or favors, irrespective of her personal fortunes, who admonished me to love the President and the Jews. And I took her advice religiously. Thus the shock of seeing that hatred in their eyes, woke me up. I am doing my part to love them, to do them justice, but are they doing theirs? Friendship is a mutual relationship. Good will must work both ways.

Is our basis going to be TRUTH, or partisanship, disregarding truth and the rights of those whom the Jews hate?

I was indicted upon demands of Jewish agitators, upon their petitions, taken in chains to the Capital like a dangerous criminal. The young woman asked me in the name of the Christ, to forgive them and bear them no ill will. I was thankful for her interest in me and complied.

Why does she not teach the Jews to do likewise? That young woman has developed marvelous powers of thought transference, as a disciple of "Christian Science". Time and again she applied her "absent treatment" to me and woke me up in the middle of the night, or the early morning hours,— I am so sensitive to her influence.

What a world of good she could do were she to apply herself to President Roosevelt and teach him to protect the Constitution and not have me indicted by mobrule, in place of due process of law. Were her Love of the Christ powerful enough to inspire the holy ghost writers, who hole out in the White House and use the war as a loop hole to deprive us of our constitutional rights and destroy the private businessmen, for the profit of the cartels, what wonderful work would she be doing for our country! Even the Christ Himself was unable to soften the hearts of the palace guard, but was sentenced by their mobrule to be pushed through the streets of the city, like a dangerous criminal.

Working for the Jews, Now

A woman subscriber to The Broom, who has watched the transformation of the business life in her neighborhood during the New Deal planned economy and noticed how small business men were put out of business, remarked to a friend of mine, "The Broom is working for the Jews now, since Mr. de Aryan took up with that blonde, agent of Roosevelt." She added that the business formerly owned by Americans has been bought up at bankruptcy sale for a fraction of its value by Jewish businessmen.

Of course my friend demurred and reported the incident to me.

There is quite a difference between following the injunction of the Saviour to love everybody, even our enemies, and "working for the Jews". By complying with Principle and keeping one's obligations and doing one's best, one rises above the stage where hate and revenge, violence and fear hold sway. One grows to the stature where the viewpoint of the Almighty is the guiding power. Then one sees how it comes that Jews took over the business of the former owners at bankruptcy sales after the Newdeal planners succeeded thru Newdeal rules and conditions to ruin the owners. And what one sees then is quite plain. The average American "let George do it", instead of running his own government. So "George is doing him now".

The situation cannot be improved by a lot of heat and hatred. Tom, Dick and Harry had to have an object lesson that to be sovereign and boss in his own country he must take all the necessary interest to run his own government himself. He has the power. When he neglects it and prefers to let someone else have the responsibility, the Jews will take over. That is their function. They have done it in Egypt under Joseph, they took over every near-east and Levant country, for a while. They took over Spain, and finally Europe.

Everywhere persecution resulted as a revolt against Jewish tactics. That was called anti-Semitism. The truth is, it was and is a revolt against Jewish abuses of power wherever they take over the rule over economic and political conditions.

My acquaintance with Miss Fay resulted in raising me to the stage where I do not seek correction of existing abuses by mere heat and resentment. I am taking in the whole picture, where the white man neglects his duty the Kike takes over. All the white man has to do is be true to himself and his mission and in that fashion he becomes the savior of the Kikes. They can no longer take advantage of him to enslave him and make him work for them so that they get the profit by collecting taxes and usury.

Since I am doing my full duty as a sovereign American citizen in upholding the Constitution against the Newdealers, I can by no stretch of the imagination be classed among those who "work for the Jews", in the sense that I am playing their Newdeal game of junking the Constitution and American industry of the small man, so the junk dealers can buy it at auction for a song.

But I do work for the Jews in the sense that I am working for their emancipation and salvation, so the curse will be lifted from their race and instead of being parasites, they, too, will become caucasian and Americans, as the congregation of Beth Israel in Houston, Texas, decided to do. And in that effort I hope to find the co-operation of every intelligent Jew, as well as non-Jew, for such is the mission of America, to give us all a chance to earn our living and be free men.

UNITARIAN PASTOR HITS PLAN TO AID ARMY OBJECTORS

HOUSTON, Texas— In protest to appropriating funds of the American Unitarian Association for support of Unitarian conscientious objectors in civilian service camps, Rev. John Clarence Petrie, pastor, First Unitarian Church, has sent a formal petition to the board of directors of the association in Boston.

Rev. Mr. Petrie sent the petition after publication of an editorial in the current issue of the news bulletin of the Unitarian Fellowship for Social Justice, which stated that conscientious objectors should be supported both financially and morally by the association.

"Those who wish to be martyrs to conscience should be allowed to be martyrs," Rev. Mr. Petrie stated. He protested against taking money contributed by fathers and mothers of boys now serving in their country's uniform to pay for keep of men who refuse to join in the struggle for American independence.

"The only real martyrs are those boys who are fighting and dying in battle right now," Rev. Mr. Petrie said. He added that pacifism is the vilest perversion of values existing today.

Solar Aircraft News

Solar Aircraft Company last week won the distinction of being the first aircraft plant in western America, and possibly in the entire nation, to bring art into industry.

Through an arrangement with the Fine Arts Gallery, headed-by Reginald Poland, the Solar Aircraft Company arranged for an exhibit of contemporary paintings, which was hung in the aisle adjacent to the Inspection Department in the main building.

The art exhibit was opened officially Wednesday at noon when Edmund T. Price, Solar President and First Vice-President of the Fine Arts Society, addressed the assembled workers and told them about the innovation.

"Some of you are aware that for several years I have enjoyed a close association with the San Diego Fine Arts Gallery," Price said. "It has occurred to Mr. Reginald Poland, the director of the gallery, that stimulating our enjoyable works of art can be brought to a wider usefulness by bringing these to industrial concerns. He sought my cooperation and I am happy to announce that an arrangement has been made whereby Solar will receive on loan an ever changing variety of good pictures which will be on exhibit. These pictures are all valuable and I ask you to handle them as such. Some of them will interest and please you—some you may not like. If you think you can paint better pictures than are shown you are invited to try it out for yourself. This feature or, rather, this Solar feature actually will be continued on a trial basis for six months, and, of course, will be continued beyond that period if the experiment is successful. It is my impression that this is one of the first instances in the country where art has been brought into an industrial concern but I see nothing improper in this and it is just as reasonable as the playing of music during lunch hour. . . . I hope that you will enjoy them and, further, that you will visit the Fine Arts Gallery at 2324 Pine Street. Better still, I hope that some of you may find recreation and pleasure in your own attempts at painting or sketching."

Price, who has been active in the San Diego Business Men's Art Association, said that an all-Solar art exhibit probably will be hung within the next 30 days. The aircraft executive has enjoyed painting as an avocation for many years and has numerous canvases to his credit.

For several years Price has sponsored craftsmanship and art contests among Solar employees and once a year has arranged special exhibits of their handicraft. Prizes given by him have stimulated both their efforts and their interest.

'Refugees' Finance Black Markets

Dear Mr. de Aryan:

I enclose you on one sheet of paper a copy that I have made of a part of an article in the National City Bank of New York Monthly Bulletin for February, 1944.

It would seem from this article that "merchants" dealing in "used autos, furniture", etc., seek to "evade taxation" to carry on the war against the monster Hitler, whom they have been howling against for a number of years.

While the last paragraph does not actually make a similar charge, yet it seems to intimate that "some owners of refugee money" are worried.

Won't it be a nice expression of gratitude, after being given asylum in this Country for themselves and their "refugee money", if these persons should join with their "merchant" friends in trying to escape similar taxation!

With kind regards I am, Sincerely,
EDWARD P. E. TROY,

In addition to heavy legitimate uses, there is evidence of growing demands for currency from "black market" operators who are reported to deal in many different articles above OPA ceilings, and who naturally try to avoid bank records in their dealings.

At the same time, some of the merchants doing an extensive business in used automobiles, furniture, antiques, old jewelry, etc., are reported to deal strictly on a cash basis both in buying and selling, with only a minimum of bookkeeping records, IN ORDER TO AVOID TAXATION.

In fact, the extreme high income tax rates now prevailing afford to large numbers of people a high premium on evading taxes an any income not reported to the Treasury at the source.

With the lowering of income tax exemptions, many people not having bank accounts have adopted the practice of storing up currency for the payment of their taxes. Moreover, many people have misunderstood the frequent proposals for "forced savings" (of a portion of income, through taxes and post-war refunds) to mean confiscation of savings accounts, and some owners of refugee money fear special taxes, or a "freezing" of bank deposits because of foreign connections.

VIVISECTION

TORTURING OF ANIMALS DISCOVERED

At one time, I was invited to visit a certain big laboratory in New York City. I was told that they did "wonderful work on living animals".

Geo. Starr White

This interested me much, for I had heard that cutting into living animals was done, but I had never seen it done. I soon arranged for a visit to this laboratory.

In one room I saw a beautiful Persian cat with its feet nailed to a board and several medical students standing over the suffering animal, puffing cigaret smoke in its face. I reprimanded them for tormenting an animal already in torture. They grinned at me.

In the next large room I first saw a large Newfoundland dog fastened upright to a big-kite-shaped board. Nails were driven through its feet and the entire abdomen was cut open. A hook was attached to an edge of the heart and a thread was attached to the hook and from it went to a mechanical recording drum.

In the same room were several cats fastened to boards, as well as dogs of different breeds fastened to tables or movable boards. All the animals were alive and were either nailed to the boards they were on, or clamped to the tables they occupied.

All kinds of agonizing cries were coming from the tortured animals. I spoke to the superintending doctor about the torturing. I told him that no suffering animal could give a normal reaction and that there was no need of such awful torturing of helpless animals, neither was there any scientific finding possible from animals undergoing such fiendish torturing. He glared at me and told me if I didn't like it I could get out. He said that was a part of the students' training and that they had to learn to see suffering.

As I was going out of the building I met a boy who had just received some money for a beautiful cat. I asked him where he got the cat, which had a ribbon and bell on its neck. He said he climbed over a fence "up on Fifth avenue" to get it. He told me he was paid fifty cents for this one. As he said it he jingled the two quarters in his pocket. He told me he made lots of money in getting cats for this laboratory.

Who is Overthrowing the Government?

The press quotes Senator Wheeler's comment on the new charge in the third indictment about conspiring to overthrow the U. S. Government and set up a Nazi one. He asks why this "plot" was not discovered long ago. To quote: "There have been three investigations and three indictments in a year and a half," said Senator Burton K. Wheeler (d.), of Montana. "With the expert investigators of the FBI bringing their acumen to bear upon the activities of the accused persons you would naturally suppose that the department had all the information when the first indictment was obtained in the summer of 1942, and at any rate when the second indictment was obtained in January, 1943. It is very strange that this Nazi plot to overthrow our Government was not mentioned in either the first or the second indictment."

"It is difficult to conceive that a bunch of crackpots would get very far trying to set up a Nazi or any other form of government. I have a good deal of apprehension of a Fascist government eventuating in the United States. But the danger does not emanate from the crackpots but from the trend in our Government today toward the supremacy of the executive branch. More and more Congress is being ignored while there goes forward the building up of an all-powerful executive, contrary to the ideas of the founding fathers who feared that the executive branch would dominate the other branches of government unless restrained by the checks and balances they devised. The checks and balances are being overridden, but not by the crackpots named in these indictments." (Wash. Times-Herald, 1-5-44) — Elizabeth Dilling.

Definition of Gentleman Irvin Cobb & New Dealers Youthful Delinquency

By WASHINGTON ADAMS

WASHINGTON— Cardinal Newman, author of "Lead Kindly Light"— favorite hymn of President McKinley, was one of the greatest and noblest spirits of the Anglo-Saxon race. Here is a lovely prose poem from his pen that should be clipped for your scrap book:

"It is almost a definition of a gentleman to say he is one who never inflicts a pain. He makes light of favors while he does them, and seems to be receiving when he is conferring. He observes the maxim of the ancient sage, that we should ever conduct ourselves toward an enemy as if he were one day to be our friend." —Cardinal Newman.

TWO GREAT AMERICANS died within two days of each other, Irvin Cobb, 67, and Hendrik Willem Van Loon, 62. Too early for such magnificent writers and patriots. I have two friends in New York, who are more than thirty years their senior and still going strong, but they never wrote a book.

Cobb wrote a farewell letter that will endure in American literature. He gave instructions that his ashes should be placed in the soil beneath a newly planted dogwood tree, to fertilize it; as a sort of monument, and a flat, Quaker style slab of Kentucky limestone be placed at his tree.

I shall always love Irvin Cobb for his great heart, his genial humor, his love of humanity and his views on government. He was, like all true Americans of intelligence and patriotism—an "America Firster". He voted for Willkie, saying "he is the only Democrat in the race". In the last radio speech I heard him make, he said: "Christ was crucified between two New Dealers".

HENDRIK WILLEM VAN LOON, hearing how Cobb had died in a coma, remarked, "that is the way to go"; and the next day his great heart suddenly ceased beating.

Van Loon was one of those Europeans who have come here and blessed our land with their love and genius. He was not only a great and original writer, but he was an attractive radio commentator. I was on the point of writing the Blue Network and asking, "why don't you put Van Loon back on the air?" when I was startled by a voice from my loudspeaker, "Hendrik Van Loon is dead".

Van Loon was the only radio personality with whom I have corresponded who always answered me in his own handwriting—in that unique script which adorned the fascinating drawings in his books. He used a kind of glistening black ink that I had not seen since my boyhood and which I have been unable to buy in any American city.

"MORALS FREE-FOR-ALL HELD SWEEP-ING U. S." is the headline of a sensational story, which was one of a recent series in the most widely circulated daily in America, "The N. Y. Daily News".

"The controversy over the growing problem of juvenile delinquency—coupled with striking charges of a breakdown in sex standards beyond anything dreamed of in the free and easy Flapper Era following World War I—will become national in scope with publication of a U. S. Senate sub-committee's report now in the hands of the printer."

In two years the delinquency of young American girls has increased 130%, that of boys has declined nearly 8%—young lads off to the navy, perhaps. In Chicago there has been an increase of 20% in young unwed mothers.

Washington has so many more young women than young men that it has perhaps the best record in probity of an American city.

Some cities punish parents for neglect of their children. In Rock Island, Ill., recently one judge sentenced a mother to 30 days and a father to 90 days for failing to take care of their delinquent children.

I think I have a good explanation for the increased juvenile delinquency, aside from the problems of the war; but I shall postpone its discussion until later. It has to do with the efforts of New Deal Socialism to prevent young people from working until they are 18.

The decrease in conventionality is a startling development of the youth of today. Dr. (Mrs.) Lee Steiner, M. D., of Rutgers University, thinks it is the adults who need to be educated in sexual matters, so they can instruct their children. Here are her startling words:

"This has been my experience. A 17-year-old girl comes and says: 'Dr. Steiner, I want you to try to persuade my parents to take a more reasonable attitude. They don't want me to pass my week-ends at an Army camp with my boy friend'.

"So I warn her of venereal diseases. But she says the boy has no venereal disease.

"Then I warn her of the danger of pregnancy. But it turns out the boy has learned all about preventing pregnancy from his pals in the Army.

"Then I warn her of the danger of detection, and ask her what she would do, if there should be 'an accident'. The girl says: 'Well, I like kids, anyhow!'

"We experts are frankly baffled at this point. It is difficult to find a rational criticism of the girl's reasoning. There is no argument left except convention."

"Maybe," says Dr. Steiner, "it is society that needs sex instruction. Maybe society needs to know what makes up the mores of 1944 youth."

THE GRAND OLD "CHICAGO TRIBUNE"— now nearing 100 years of age—was the paper that put across the nomination of Abraham Lincoln for President in 1860. It has always been a fighter for human liberty and against despotism. On Saturday, the 11th, it had a noble editorial against "Abuses Revealed in the Sedition Cases"—on the Moscow Mass Trial of 30 administration critics, in which it said: "If men can be held to trial on that kind of a bill of particulars it is clear that the federal practice act is in need of amendment at this point also."

Lawyer Maximilian St. George of Chicago, attempted to read a part of this editorial to Justice Eicher, but Prosecutor Rogge objected, and the Judge refused to hear it read. This happened in the Washington court room here.

Trusteeship Accounting Imperative

Dear Kosti:

Your ex-girl friend would probably come under the head of "Highgrade MORON".

Good luck, and God bless you! —

Dear — — —

Thanks for your interest. My ex-girl has a lot of guts. Anybody else would have left San Diego by now. Evidently she has accepted the feud and is going to stay here for the final show down. If she does, the outcome will be a miracle. The miracle of Saulus turning Paulus.

You see, her job was to teach me to love the Jews; my business is to awaken in her the Love of Americans. She is a Newdealer and hates us now. She also has to learn to be a good servant. Matthew 20:26, 27. Today she imagines herself Queen Isis of Egypt and affects those poses. But she is awfully ignorant. A queen is at least a lady and a lady treats those who serve her with friendly respect. She is not liked in the Hotel by the people who wait on her because she looks down on them and is snobbish. She lacks the lovely graces of a lady. I always prayed that she be not cheap, but that's exactly what she turned out to be.

Her driving power is mental. She is, in Mazdaznan parlance, spiritually based, that means fundamentally emotional. First inclination mental and as a "Christian Scientist" she placed the emphasis of development on the mental. This has completely unbalanced her. Her mind tyrannizes her emotions and has ruined her. She is not even a true woman but a freak. She exemplifies so thoroughly the mistakes of Eddy's philosophy of MIND over MATTER that I shall use her as an illustrative example in pointing out the flaws in Eddy's presentation of Science.

Today the chamber maid, who makes up Marion's room in the Hotel, ranks higher in the Kingdom of God than Marion, because that maid is giving real service. She who is to be great must serve humbly. When Marion will not look down upon menial labor as a disgrace but pare her fingernails so she can use her hands to do useful work, instead of her synthetic beauty and health make-believe creations that are a fake in nature and not self-perpetuating, Marion will become our friend, as well as her own.

Marion does not appreciate the value of a loving heart, and the obligations of love. When I discovered that, it set me back more than the 6 months in jail. But I never give up a job. So I stuck it out and hollered for help. The help came. There are people to whom I have been of real service and they reciprocate by loving me. That is healing my wounds and now I can treat Marion as a "case". She is a mental case, under the tyranny of an ignorant, selfish, calculating mind, that rules and ruins the nobler side of her being. She is so pointedly the ruthless Roosevelt type, no wonder she worships him.

Will write again soon.

My Love to you and yours,

Sincerely,

KOSTI.

VIERECK FINDS CELL FOOD SCANT

WASHINGTON— Uncle Sam frequently has been charged with being too lavish with the taxpayers' money, but in Justice Eicher's court, he was accused of being too stingy with the noon-day ration served Federal prisoners in the District Court cell block.

The charge of cheese-paring was hurled by Ben Lindus, counsel for George Sylvester Viereck, 60, convicted of violating the Foreign Agents Registration Act, and one of 30 persons under indictment for seditious activities.

"A sandwich and water" is all the lunch served to prisoners, Lindus complained to Chief Justice Edward C. Eicher, during arguments attacking the sedition indictments. Lindus said:

"My client is not a young man. Some arrangement should be made for a more satisfactory noon-day meal here for him and other men his age. The court should either take better care of these persons or permit relatives to do so in order not to impair their health."

Lindus pointed out that prisoners in the court cell block feel the scant rations all the more because they miss the "heavy meal" served at noon at the District Jail.

Justice Eicher promised to investigate.

Atty. Klein vs. Judge Eicher

Much of yesterday's session was consumed by renewed arguments on demurrers to the plaintiff's indictment. Judge Eicher said that although he would not hand down formal opinion until additional points of authority on the law could be filed with him, he had heard nothing yesterday to cause him to reverse his previous memorandum opinion upholding the validity of the indictment.

Bill Copied From Book

Attorneys arguing for additional particulars charged that the only particulars the Department of Justice has given the defendants so far were copied from a book. Claude A. Thompson accused the Justice Department of copying verbatim passages from Prince Karl Lowenstein's "Hitler's Germany", a book published by the Amherst College press in 1939, and distributing it to the defendants as a "voluntary" bill of particulars.

Thompson and other attorneys said the bill of particulars supplied by the Justice Department failed in every respect to set forth where, when, with whom, or under what circumstances the defendants committed acts of the alleged conspiracy.

W. Hobart Little, attorney for David Baxter, charged that the sedition law under which the defendants were indicted is unconstitutional, and the indictment amateurish. He said this case "serves no useful purpose" and was instituted for political reasons.

Joan McBride in Auto Accident

LOS ANGELES— Mrs. Joan McBride, 39, received contusion and abrasions when she was struck by an automobile driven by Wallace Young, 44, who told police he was an employee of Franchot Tone, screen actor.

Driver Not Held

The machine was registered to Tone and Young gave his address as 144 Monovale Ave., Holmby Hills, the same as the actor's, police said. Young was not held.

The accident occurred about noon at First and Springs Sts. Mrs. McBride was treated at Georgia Street Receiving Hospital and then sent home.

Upon inquiry made by THE BROOM reporter Mrs. McBride replied:

"I have been at home for a few days since the accident, but am not feeling too well. I really was in agony for a few days. I can thank God I did not get my legs broken or something — now I have a hard time sitting down — I was scraped along the pavement for 4 feet. It was the driver's fault."

LOS ANGELES, March 15— Mrs. Joan McBride is at home now, having recovered sufficiently from the automobile accident, to be able to go about her business. Aside from a slight limp and pain, while walking, no serious injury resulted when the negro chauffeur ran into her.

In a brief statement of his platform, Efford says, "Let us determine to live on a basis of brotherhood and justice with all men! let us put this determination into practice now as far as it lies in our power; let us do all we can to open negotiations for peace."

Efford's platform also demands; a cessation of hostilities and a negotiated peace based on economic and racial equality; abolition of military and industrial conscription; freedom from want and insecurity through economic equality and a co-operative order of society; freedom for India and other subject people; freedom of speech and expression, conscience and religious belief for everyone; a proper curative and reformatory penal system; and a minister of peace in the government, whose special task will be to promote friendly relations with other peoples.
